Season's Greetings To M. L. C. A. Members

If the fires of real friendship grow dim, flicker and go out, it's simply because, in this hurly-burly life we live, we sometimes fail to pause a bit and say those simple words of thanks and good wishes which fan the flame.

So, it's wonderful that, in the scheme of things, we find a Season like this Christmas Time, when everyone's thoughts are bent to "peace on earth, good will to men."

It's a happy time, a time for hearty hand shakes, across the miles—a time to wish you and yours the Merriest of Christmases and a truly prosperous and happy year ahead.

About New Year's Eve

In view of the fact that New Year's Day falls on Sunday this year, the State Liquor Law prohibits the extension of the closing hour on New Year's Eve, Saturday, December 31, 1955.

THEREFORE, IT IS THE ORDER OF THE COMMISSION THAT THE SALE OF ALL ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGES CEASE AT 2:00 A.M. SUNDAY JANUARY 1, 1956, AND THAT THE PREMISES BE CLEARED BY 2:30 A.M.

(The management will have a "goon" squad on call to enforce this ruling.)

The Little Fawns Pant and Moan Mama Doe Cuts Loose at "Swamp Rat"

To the President of the Multi-Lakes Conservation Association.

Dear Sir:

At this time I take my pen in hand and beg of you to take some action in your club to curb the actions of one of your members.

This past deer season he spent in our part of the state. Lord help us if he ever comes here again next year. No man ever committed more despicable, dastardly deeds.

I implore you to curb his activities while in the woods. Here are a few of the dastardly deeds he committed. He practically lived in the swamps for ten days. In fact, I understand he has now been nicknamed "swamp rat." Half of our winter's food has been tromped down; no hiding place was secure; he crawled on hands and knees through our thickest swamps. He ran around in circles in the swamp all of one afternoon. Maybe he was lost. I suspect so anyway.

He went by our hiding place

so many times and so fast that my children got dizzy watching him. He tore through, under, over and around everything so fast that he simply terrified the creatures of the forest. I doubt that some of them will ever completely recover their senses after watching the spectacle of the "swamp rat."

I would suggest that you ask your members to be a little more humane in the future and use nothing smaller than a 30-30 rifle for deer hunting. Although the "swamp rat" wounded several of my fellow creatures, they will probably recover as the weapon he uses is no more effectual than a Daisy Air rifle. (Somebody make him an offer.)

Yes, this man, I believe his name is Carroll Lysinger, alias the "swamp rat," finally got his buck, but it took a little farmer boy with his mighty 30-30 to finish it off for him.

Sincerely Yours,
 Mrs. Doe and fawns

Skeet and Trap

By Gordon Chapin

We have come to the end of another year of shooting, and the Skeet and Trap Committee of M. L. C. A. has been able to show a profit of nearly $400. To all the fellows who so generously gave their help, we wish to offer our thanks and appreciation.

Apologies to those whose name are spelled incorrectly. Here is the list of winners at the recent Turkey Shoot: W. Horstman (2), E. Draker, L. Hemming, A. Watkins (2), B. Brady (2), C. Dyer, R. Gronemeyer, E. Coleman, L. Coleman, L. Bush, R. Chabot (2), H. Harvey (2), G. Jafray, H. Heffley, E. Hemming, S. Wilezynski, E. Logie, P. Nave, (2) V. Swartz, B. Gladstone, R. Coe, E. Chaplow, Q. Odmais, A. Dunlop, N. Waggnier, and D. Disler.

Present plans call for the next Skeet and Trap Shoot to be held the last two Sundays in January. By that time we will have the new electric trap installed. Approval for the purchase of the electric trap was given by your board of directors at the October meeting.

Thanks again for your assistance, and we will be looking forward to seeing you late in January.

Meanderings

A near-record crowd enjoyed Mort Neff's program at the November membership meeting—The hard bunch of Multi-Lakers who attended the November 5 Detroit Lions-Baltimore Colts football game claim credit for the Lions' first win—D Perry was the first Multi-Laker to report back with a buck. He got it up near Prudenville — "Chuck" Tee fey brought his buck from near Big Rapids on Sunday November 20. He has promised us "deer bergers"—Who was the Multi-Laker riding in a car and spying a buck nearby, who asked the driver to back up so that he wouldn't have to shoot at such close range?—George Skarritt got his buck near Gaylord—Shivas, Moyer and Larges got one each at Gemfask—Bud Poplawski received a nice birthday present recently, a new son and heir—Ray Chabot is quite proud of the near-perfect rack on the eight pointer that he brought back—Reports have it that "Swampy" Lysinger did a good job of tracking down his buck—Ken Cracknell was on the verge of taking the "pledge" until other patrons ferried that he really saw a muskrat taking a stroll out of the storage room back of the bar room recently—REMEMBER THE GOLDEN RULE.

Was 'You There, Charley?

On Sunday November 6 the Skeet and Trap Committee sponsored a Turkey Shoot and Fish Fry at Multi-Lakes Conservation clubhouse.

The gunners really had the feathers flying by the time the sun was getting low and they had taken 31 turkeys from us. So much interest was shown in the event that the fellows are talking about holding another shoot around February or March.

Fish dinners were served from 12 noon til 4 p.m. and a steady stream of hungry people was fed a delicious dinner. It was only with the great help and cooperation of Howard Perkins, Harold Purdie, Harry Helvey, Ray Dunn and Clayton Adams and their wives, not to mention many others, that we were able to put the dinner on.

The Skeet and Trap Committee wishes to thank all those people who gave us their much appreciated time and help.

Coons Scurry to Dens When Cold Snow Falls

Snow and cold weather have brought raccoon hunting to a standstill in Michigan, but that shouldn't affect the supply of Davy Crockett hats for the younger set.

'Coon hunting seasons don't end until December 15 in the northern lower peninsula and December 31 in the southern portion but raccoons scurry quickly out of sight to winter dens when snow falls and the mercury drops. Last year, snow and cold weather were later in arriving and good raccoon hunting resulted.

However, the scarcity of Michigan raccoons needn't alarm the youngster, according to fur dealers. It seems the popular Davy Crockett hats usually are made from cheaper furs and most aren't 'coonskin at all!

Sounds Like "Sandy"

Herbert J. Miller, the Conservation Department's waterfowl specialist, bagged four mallard ducks with one shot while hunting with his son in the Fennville marshes.

Miller, who was trying to hit a Canada goose, said ducks were thick in the marsh at the time and several whirled into the line of fire as he shot.

The pellets winged the goose also, but the bird escaped into the nearby sanctuary.

He was using a 12-gauge shot gun with No. 2 shot.

Tag Your Shanty

Ice fishermen are reminded that all shelter and shanties used on the ice must be identified on the outside with the owner's name and address in letters of insoluble material at least two inches high.

Complete fishing regulations are listed in the Michigan fish law digest, now available with 1956 fishing licenses at all state license dealers.

Double Trouble Trips Four Chicago Hunters

Double trouble descended on four Chicago hunters while visiting Michigan's Paw Paw area recently.

The four made off with towels from a motel. The motel operator called state police, who stopped the quartet en route to Chicago.

While checking the towel-nappers, the officers found not only the stolen property but also that the four had been hunting illegally on resident licenses.

For the miscues, a Paw Paw justice sent one of the four to jail for 15 days and collected $37.80 from each of the others.

November Membership Meeting

Wed., Nov. 9, 1955

The meeting was called to order by Ray Chabot, Vice President, at 8:00 p.m. with the following officers present:

- Ray Chabot.....Vice President
- Herb Harvey.....Secretary
- Tom Crane.....Treasurer
- Jim Campion.....Memb. Sec'y.

The members present stood, and pledged Allegiance to the Flag and recited the Conservation Pledge.

President Adams had called and reported he would be detained for an hour or so; he arrived shortly after the meeting started.

It was regularly moved and seconded that the minutes of the previous meeting be accepted as published in the Multi-Lakers. Motion carried.

Tom Crane read the Treasurers report for October. It was moved by Stiles, seconded by Sutton, the report be accepted as read. Motion carried.

Lin Bush reporting for the Rifle Committee, said 27 Junior Shooters had appeared last Monday night, and more were expected in December. More time is needed for these. Kids and Bush thought that if the Ladies aren't going to use their night, that might solve the problem.

Bruce Enfield, for Entertainment, asked how many would be interested in a trip to Olympia to see the Red Wings in action. Anyone interested should leave their names with Rahn.

Marion Pullis, for Skeet and

Trap, said exact figures were not yet available on Sunday's Turkey Shoot and Fish Dinner but thought $175 profit a reasonable figure.

Mort Neff, our guest speaker for the evening, reported on prospects for the coming deer season. He selected, Sandy Watson, Ray Chabot, Arnold Larges, and Allen Higbee from those present for a quiz on "Michigan Outdoors." He presented the lucky gentlemen with some very "appropriate" prizes. His picture for the evening was "Showman Shooter," which proved to be excellent entertainment.

President Adams announced the Christmas Party would be held on Sunday December 18 at 2:00 p.m. He also announced that the Milford and Walled Lake schools have signed up for the Group Camp program at the Proud Lake Area, and that their dates have already been announced.

Dick Disler, for Skeet and Trap, announced a shoot for Sunday, Nov. 13 and that there would be a small work bee. Seems as though there is a ditch to be dug.

Ray Chabot, for House and Grounds, said that inasmuch as the plans for the proposed additions to our Clubhouse had not been received from the Architect, he thought the vote on said additions should be put off until the December meeting. This suggestion met with the approval of all present.

This being the meeting for nominations from the floor, the presiding officer called for nominations for President. Karl Wysong was nominated but hastily declined. Lup moved the nominations close. Seconded by Perkins. Motion carried.

Nominations for Vice President: Stan Tusan, Walt Peters. Crane moved nominations close. Seconded by Dyer. Motion carried.

Water and Progressive Thinking

By Warren Nuenschwander

(This is the fourth in a series of articles on water pollution.)

So far we have been talking mainly about water supply. To begin to think about the other pipe, the one that leads away from the house or factory, is to get into the realm of ethics and good citizenship. A community first asks, where can we get enough good water to satisfy our needs? Then it goes on to ask, what happens to the water we use? From the first to the second question takes a step in maturity comparable to that of a child who suddenly realizes others have rights too.

Although most of us today live in towns and cities, pollution is no respecter of locality. Farmers have to struggle constantly against pollution of their streams and wells by seepage from outhouses or by contamination from cattle — particularly those belonging to neighbors upstream.

But as long as this country remained a nation of farms and small factories, and people were careful not to put the outhouse where it drained toward the pump, kept the cattle away from springs used for drinking, and boiled their drinking water during epidemics, we got along. So did the rivers. The waste were not yet too concentrated for them to absorb. By the time pollution had begun to be a problem to nature, the water supply experts had come along. When the public found that scientists could make even polluted water safe to drink, it stopped worrying about the sources of our water.

This divorced the idea of water supply from that of waste disposal. But the divorce was only in the public mind. Physically, the two problems were and are inseparable. One town's sewer feeds the next town's intake pipes all the way down the river. If your town happens to be near the mouth of the river and if the towns above yours discharge raw sewage into the river, you may find yourself drinking what one authority calls "a continuous intake of human excreta."

The same holds true with industrial wastes excepting these wastes present more of a puzzles. Measured by bulk alone, they are greater in quantity. Then — unlike human sewage and the more or less predictable sloughings of restaurants and laundries, beauty shops and hospitals — factory waste varies with the product.

Foreign scientists, however, especially British and Germans, have been doing research on factory wastes for many years. Drawing on their experience, our government laboratories, engineering schools and industrial technicians were able to provide antidotes for some of the less specialized waste and for those which were proving noxious to a specific water supply in a crucial area.

The Cover Picture

Another of a series of pictures of M.L.C.A. club grounds and surrounding area decorates the cover of this issue.

As pretty a picture as you will find on any Christmas card, this was taken the day of the first snowfall. The shot was made from the northwest corner of the club house looking across the corner of the range building into the state park.

Mail Carriers Assist In Post-Season Count

More than 600 rural mail carriers will be on the lookout for pheasants during Christmas-time deliveries in the southern half of the lower peninsula.

The reason for the extra-curricular activity is the annual post-season count of pheasant populations December 5-17.

Rural mail carriers voluntarily assist the Conservation Department in checking the proportion of cock pheasants to hens.

Ralph Blouch, game biologist, says information from counts made by rural postmen is an important factor in long-range management of the popular Michigan game bird.

9,000 More Than Last Year Firearm Hunters Bag 68,000 Bucks

Conservation Department reports on Michigan's 1955 deer season indicate firearm hunters bagged some 68,000 bucks—about 9000 more than during the regular season last year.

Statistical studies of deer being transported on highways show about a 20 percent increase in the buck kill in the northern lower peninsula and an over-all boost of about 15 percent throughout the state.

Hunters bagged approximately 39,500 whitetails in the northern lower peninsula this season—about 6700 more than were taken in the region last year during the 16-day buck season.

A limited special one - day "any deer" season in a portion of the northern half of the lower peninsula added another 8300 deer to the total kill in 1954. No special season is being held this year except on a small area in Allegan County.

Upper peninsula hunters accounted for some 26,500 bucks killed this year, an increase of about 2000 over 1954, despite two severe blizzards in the region during this season.

In the farm areas of the southern lower peninsula, game workers estimated the total kill may have reached 2000, compared with 1700 in 1954.

According to fragmentary information, hunting pressure this year appeared about the same as 1954 when 420,000 hunters turned out for the regular firearm season.

Reports from Conservation

Department biological checking stations indicate very little change from last year in deer weights and antler development in the same age class.

A somewhat higher percentage of older bucks was bagged in some counties in the lower peninsula this season, in comparison to 1954. Game specialists said the presence of more older bucks may be the result of a below normal harvest of deer in these areas last year.

Large State Elk Herd Poses Control Puzzle

Michigan's elk herd, estimated at more than 600 animals, threatens to create a problem in game management.

The herd, which started with the release of seven elk in the Pigeon River state forest near Vanderbilt in 1918, has grown rapidly in the last few years. Conservation workers sighted more than 200 in less than an hour last month.

Private landowners in the area have complained recently that elk are causing damage to pine, cherry and other trees with low branches. Game specialists think the mauling of the trees may be an effort by the elk to polish their antlers.

In some cases, elk actually eat twigs although they are primarily grass-eating animals. Damage to trees with low-hanging branches also reduces the available supply of deer food.

Michigan never has had an elk hunting season and there are no measures at present to restrict the growth of the herd.

Game specialists say that some control of the herd must be exerted if tree damage continues.

The Mill Lake group camp administration building in the Waterloo recreation area near Chelsea burned recently. The 26x88 foot building and its contents were nearly a total loss.

Lose Their Rifles After Ford Match

At an early November rifle match between M.L.C.A. riflemen and their Ford opponents at the Ford range, the Multi-Lakers were the losers.

Enroute home in their usual 'share the ride' style, John Armstrong and Ed Greiner, along with their car host for the evening, Harry Horner, stopped for refreshment while talking over their defeat.

When they returned to Harry's car they discovered that someone had broken into the vehicle and 'lifted' their guns and other equipment. Another loss, only this time it amounted to about $600 worth. To date, none of the articles have been recovered.

Don Wilson, another member of the team, had parked next to Horner's car, but equipment in his car had not been touched.

Former Member Killed In Hunting Accident

Lloyd Coe, 58, of 3635 Union Lake Rd., Walled Lake, was the first hunter to lose his life in the 1955 deer hunting season. The fatal shot, which was reportedly fired from the gun of Gordon Laramie, 25, of Detroit, ricocheted into Coe's chest after striking and shattering the arm of his hunting companion, Amos Bentley of Walled Lake.

The accident occurred while the hunters were walking through the woods near Ewan in Ontonagon county. Laramie collapsed after the shooting and was taken to a hospital in Land O' Lakes, Wisconsin.

Coe, former M.L.C.A. member, was born February 4, 1897 in West Bloomfield township, son of Eugene and Jennie Spencer Coe. He had operated Pineview Resort at Arbutus Lake for the past nine years, and was previously a grocer at Commerce for 17 years. He was a member of Commerce Masonic Lodge No. 121 and Past Master.

Surviving him are his wife; Avis; his mother, Mrs. Jennie Coe of Commerce; a son, Robert Coe of Commerce; a brother, Fred of Pontiac, and two sisters, Mrs. Edmund Dickie of Farmington and Mrs. Clyde Hazen of Walled Lake.

Range House Visitors

Sometime about November 22-25 uninvited guests paid a visit to the range house and walked off with two of the club's rifles. The guns were used chiefly in junior shooting program.

No sign of a break-in was apparent until the trained eyes of the sheriff's department discovered the marks where the lock had been worked open.

The guns were covered by insurance.

"Ask the Farmer First"

By Big Red

There was an old man by the name of Baker,
Who hunted all over Hell's half-acre,
He never asked if he had the right,
Until one day he saw the light.
A farmer-caught him legal and square,
And kicked him in, the you know where,
And now to hunt, you must ask the Baker's,
Because the old man has a couple of ackers.

Will Ask to Manage The State Deer Herd

Michigan's Conservation Commission is going to ask the 1956 Legislature to restore the Commission's authority to manage the state deer herd.

At the November meeting, the Commission voted unanimously to make the request. The 1955 Legislature did not extend the Commission's discretionary power.

In other business, the Commission approved a slate of regulations for administration of the submerged lands act passed by the 1955 Legislature.

Also approved was the sale of $19,200 worth of timber from nine state forests.

Ice Fishing Starts

Ice fishing has started on Houghton Lake.

Conservation Department field workers say the lake appears to be frozen over and that fishermen are out a mile from shore in some places. Transport is limited to sleds and walking; the ice is not yet safe enough for car travel.

Large Timber Harvest Drops Feed for Deer

An estimated 50,000-55,000 acres of timber will be cut on state land in northern Michigan deeryards this winter and the tops and branches will provide much-needed food for deer during the critical short-ration months.

In the winter, when deer gather in protected swamps and valley deeryards, they often find little food. But when woodmen harvest timbers in these deeryards, the tops and limbs of trees they cut are left for hungry deer. These provide tons of fresh food.

Last year, about 47,000 acres were cut in and near deeryards. The timber provides pulp, sawlogs and posts.

Protest Loss of Taxes

The parks committee of the Conservation Commission is studying the proposed Sherman Hills recreation area in St. Joseph county following objections to establishment of the area by a 40-member delegation from Sherman township.

The delegation presented a petition signed by 443 local residents who oppose the move to create a 4,500-acre recreation area in the township.

The group opposing Sherman Hills argued that the proposed action would take 4,500 acres off the township tax rolls and that the land is now in farm production.

Diet on Hickory Nuts

Hickory nuts were the main diet of two red foxes killed recently in southern Michigan.

Conservation Department biologists say foxes eat a wide variety of foods, including insects, acorns, grains and grasses. Mostly, of course, they stick to field mice, but will eat anything they can find including small game animals, carrion and birds.

Hunters bagged the two nut-eaters at Rose Lake wildlife station near Lansing. Autopsy showed they cracked the hickories, then ate meat, shells and all.

Rare Canada Lynx Shot

A rare Canada lynx was shot in the upper peninsula's Delta county, 14 miles west of Roc.

The animal, a female, weighed 18 pounds and was bagged by Richard Ossewaarde of Coopersville. Conservation Department biologists at the Straits of Mackinac identified the animal when Ossewaarde was returning from a deer hunting trip.

Lynxes are almost never seen in Michigan and have never been common.
