Climb Aboard With Shelley On His "Montana Pack-Trip" At July 15 Membership Meeting Coast Guard To Teach Newest Life Saving Method

Our old friend Howard Shelley will take us on one of his favorite adventures, into the Madison Range of the Rockies, in southwest Montana. With headquarters at a huge ranch, his party of ten, with 20 pack horses, spent 10 days in the rain, snow and sunshine, exploring Montana's rugged beauty, hunting big game with Movie Camera and catching beautiful Golden Trout. Follow the actual trail made by Chief Joseph of the Nez Perce Indian Tribe in 1860.

Don't miss this high point of our summer's entertainment planned for you.

The United States Coast Guard, in its effort to make life saving everybody's business will show us simply and effectively, how we can apply the Neilson method of artificial respiration. Be sure to see this because it might mean saving the life of your own son or daughter.

Attention: New Members

This is your chance to meet some of the working members of YOUR club.

There will be a WORK BEE at the clubhouse, Sunday, July 12 at 9:00 a.m.

Bring a stepladder and a bucket, if you have them. If you haven't come anyway. We will find other work for you to do.

Purpose of the bee is to clean up the clubhouse ballroom.

FREE REFRESHMENTS! !

Louis Payne

Funeral services were held Monday, June 29 for Louis Payne, father of M.L.C.A. president, L. Weldon Payne, and his brother William, also a Multi-Lakes member.

Coming: Don Gillies

Don Gillies' color and sound movie, "Capturing A Mountain Lion Alive", will be the entertainment feature at M.L.C.A.'s September membership meeting.

Grounds Committee

The beautiful appearance of the grounds, and especially of the parkway is due largely to the efforts of Walt Peters' planning and selection of flower plantings, and to Bill Boggess for finishing the planting, and watering of the area, when I did not have the time available to do so.

Thanks a million, Walt and Bill.

Jim Campion, Chairman
Grounds Committee

★ The President's Column ★ Thanks - Thanks - Thanks

By Weldon Payne

The biggest week of the year is now past history—

Multi-Lakes's biggest fund raising campaign — the MUCC Annual Award.

Multi-Lakes's biggest turnout of the year at a membership meeting — nearly 400.

The completion of the 22nd Annual Michigan United Conservation Clubs Convention at Manistee.

The members of Multi-Lakes did it again. Through hard work, a red-hot spirit of competition and loyalty to their club, our members produced a gross profit of approximately $4,000.00, second only to the Detroit Sportsmen's Congress, who grossed $6,800.00 with 4,100 members. When I made my report to the convention, believe me, it was with real pride when I announced how our club fared.

Unfortunately, at this writing, the individual records of our members is incomplete but I hope to have it finished before the July membership meeting, and it will also appear in detail in the August Multi-Laker. I am hoping that orders for shirts and arrangements for that Steak Dinner can be made at the July 15 meeting—so be sure you are present.

The convention was a huge success — not only the weather but also the dispatch with which the business was transacted, and the results will be burning their way deep into Lansing and will without a doubt, result in legislation, controls and enforcement which will make Michigan a better place for you and me and our kids, to enjoy the great outdoors.

As usual, the Governor addressed the convention, although he slyly digressed from conservation to plugging his Income Tax bill. The outstanding address was by Mr. Ross Lefler, assistant Secretary of the Interior. It was really a stirring message and I want to reproduce it on these pages as soon as a copy is available.

The convention elected Paul Wendler of Saginaw, as President, Al Meredith and Jim Goudreau were returned to office as Vice-Presidents, and Larry DeBow of Battle Creek was newly elected as a Vice-President. Joe Strait of Fruitport replaced Warren Neuenchwander as Regional Vice-President of Region III. (Incidentally, Joe drives a Volkswagen) Henry Neithofer was elected Treasurer, and Escanaba was selected as the Convention City for 1960.

You should know that your delegates to the convention, Wayne Hinkle, Nick Lup and Everett Ramsey, were in their places representing you, and did an outstanding job, from early morning until adjournment each day of the convention and I know they were as proud as I was to represent the number one club in Michigan.

A vote of thanks to the following M.L.C.A. members for their all-out efforts to make the Fish Fry of April 12, 1959 a success.

And Thanks too to the members' wives who were a tremendous help in the kitchen—

Last Call For Donors

This is our last call for blood donors before the Red Cross Bloodmobile's visit to M.L.C.A. Tuesday, July 21, from 4 to 10 p.m.

The following notes are from a Red Cross bulletin:

"You have enough blood in your system to spare and to deposit in a blood bank for future use, for yourself or your family.

Scientists can't get blood out of test tubes or turnips, nor can doctors pull it out of operating room caps.

The blood that saves lives comes only from you who have plenty of it and give . . . You, an average healthy adult have 12 to 13 pints of blood. You'll never miss the one pint you give to the blood bank.

In fact, it won't be missing long. Your body sees to that. The liquid part of the blood you give will be replaced almost as soon as you can say "blood donation". Your body will remanufacture the missing cells and minerals in about 10 days."

The pint of blood you donate

Estimate 69,000 Deer Perished in 5 Months

An estimated 69,000 whitetails perished in Michigan's woods between mid-November and early April, according to the Conservation Department's recently completed dead deer survey.

The survey was conducted in approximately 500 randomly-selected plots encompassing the deer range in both peninsulas.

Herd losses were listed in six classes: starved 16,100; shot, 13,100; dog or predator kills, 1,850; accidents and disease, 5,250; unknown but not starved, 14,500; cause entirely unknown, 18,300.

In 1956, when the last major spring survey was made, the total dead deer figure was an estimated 115,650.

Meanderings

Congratulations to Bob and Mrs. Enrick on their 40th wedding anniversary and to Eddie and Mrs. Chaplow on their 39th . . . Multi-Lakes delegates to the M.U.C.C. convention, Lup, Ramscy and Kinkle, were greatly impressed with what M.U.C.C. is actually doing in state-wide conservation . . . The aerial photo of M.L.C.A. club grounds new on display in the clubhouse was taken by Gene Proulx, enlarged and mounted by Bill Cuchran in a frame furnished by Pat Chaplow. Glass for it was donated by Ernie Piche and Chas. White of Safety Auto Glass Co. . . Al Knight, unknowingly, added a lot more interest and excitement to the June membership meeting by donating a registered Weiner-amer puppy to the door prize committee. Unwanted by winner Ted Pauline, the pup was auctioned off for a tidy sum . . . Clayt Adams will supervise a work bee Sunday, July 12 to wash the walls and ceiling of the ballroom . . . Charlie Helin's "Canadian Fishing" film was shown to a packed house at the June meeting . . . Committee activity seems to have slowed down for the summer months . . . Our Little Leaguers continue to play winning ball. Why not get out and watch some of their games . . . The June 21 chicken and turkey dinner was poorly attended . . . One of our Board members recently fell into Reed lake while trying to bale out a boat . . . A hot muggy night held down the attendance at the June 27 Pot Luck Dinner Dance . . . It was the last scheduled dance until after Labor Day . . . If you recuperate from the Annual Kids' Picnic, Sunday, July 19, we'd like to see you at the Blood Bank on Tuesday, July 21, 4 to 10 p.m. at the clubhouse . . . The Michigan Trap Championship Shoot will be held at the Berrien County Sportsmen's Club on July 10-12. Will Multi-Lakes shotgunners be represented? . . . A group hospitalization plan for MLCA members wishing it is still being investigated . . . REMEMBER THE GOLDEN RULE . . .

Little Leaguers

M.L.C.A.'s Little League Cards lost their first game of this season on July 1, to the Wixom Orioles, 4 to 2. They still lead the league with eight wins and one loss.

Second place teams are the Orioles and the Walled Lake Tigers with six wins and three losses.

The Cards have played and won two extra-inning games, both against the Tigers. They won a nine inning contest 5 to 1, and a beautiful seven inning bout, 1 to 0.

Johnny Lundquist and Jimmy Jenke have each pitched and won three games, and Pitcher Jerry Newman has one win. Donnie Freeman has won one and lost one, but he's the team's homerun king with five to his credit.

The Cards will play the Tigers at M.L.C.A. July 10, 6 p.m. and will meet the Westacres nine on July 13 at M.L.C.A. at 6 p.m. Wixom Orioles will be their foe in a contest at the club field on Family Picnic Day, Sunday, July 19, starting at 4 p.m.

Manager Clare Wein invites you out to watch your team.

Pretty, But Wild, So— Don't Molest Them

Conservation Department officials urge the public not to handle or molest fawns.

These whitetail "babies" are currently making their appearance on Michigan's wildlife scene. They are often taken by well-meaning persons who think they have been deserted by the mother and are in need of help.

The fawns are not abandoned or orphaned and it is far better to leave them where they are found.

Not only is it entirely unnecessary to pick up fawns in the woods, but it is illegal as well. Fawns are pretty and appealing but they are wild animals and should be treated as such.

Once when he returned from a European trip Mark Twain became somewhat miffed at a customs official who was poking through his trunk.

"Must you make such a mess of things?" asked the author. "I told you I have only my clothes in there."

Suddenly the official straightened up, a bottle of scotch whiskey in his hand.

"You call this 'clothes?'" he said.

"Of course," replied Twain. "That's my nightcap."—Milwaukee Journal.

The privileges of MLCA are extended to members in good standing, and their immediate families. Guests must be accompanied at all times by a member in good standing.

7. Members or guests attired in bathing suits, or men wearing no clothing above their trousers, will not be permitted in the Clubhouse.

11. Dogs and other animals are not permitted in the Clubhouse. All animals shall be leashed or tied while on club property except for scheduled events.

19. Speed limit on the club property shall be 10 miles per hour.

23. No member may sponsor large groups without permission of the House and Grounds Committee and approval of the Board of Directors.

More on Skill

From time to time, in self defense, many of us have concluded that bass become "educated" or "hook wise" under continuous fishing effort, thereby becoming difficult to catch. A few pieces of scientific evidence have turned up in the past to bolster our ego. The more the subject is studied the stronger our favorite alibi looks.

Latest evidence comes from Kentucky, where fishery biologists Charles C. Bowers and Mayo Martin studied bass-fisherman success during the opening week on two state-owned lakes. As reported in Kentucky's Fisheries Bulletin No. 20, they divided the bass anglers into two groups, "avid" and "casual" fishermen.

If they made more than 50 fishing trips per year they were classed as avid fishermen. If they made fewer trips they were considered as casual fishermen. That certainly seems to separate the men from the boys!

At Marion County Lake, 199 "avid" bass anglers fishing the first 4 days of the season took 321 bass for an average catch-rate of 72 bass per 100 hours of fishing. During the same period, however, 227 "casual" anglers caught 219 bass at the rate of 65 fish per 100 hours of fishing.

The difference between these two groups was greater at Smoky Hollow Lake. There, 147 "avid" fishermen harvested 51 bass per 100 hours of fishing for a total of 275 fish during the first four days of the season. But 178 "casual" fishermen took only 26 bass per 100 hours of fishing, to rack up a total of 159 bass.

The differences were pronounced after the first day's fishing. At both lakes, during the second, third, and fourth days, "avid" anglers caught bass twice as fast as did "casual" anglers!

Experience (skill) seems to count as bass become wary . . .

Radioactive Fish

A scientist has come forth with some ominous news concerning radioactive fish. In a report published in Deutsche Korrespondenz, German scientist Walter Theimer says that of the radioactive elements produced by atomic explosions, strontium-90 is perhaps the most dangerous and that it tends to be accumulated, together with other radioactive substances, in plants, and even more so in animals eating those plants. A fish in a river contaminated by radioactive material is 150,000 times as radioactive as the water itself, and the yolk of eggs of water-birds eating such fishes is 1,500,000 times as radioactive as the water!

To Go Fishing

is the chance to wash one's soul with pure air, with the rush of the brook, or with the shimmer of the sun on blue water. It brings meekness and inspiration from the decency of nature, charity toward tackle-makers, patience toward fish, a mockery of profits and egos, a quieting of hate, a rejoicing that you do not have to decide a darned thing until next week. And it is discipline in the equality of men—for all men are equal before fish."

Herbert Hoover

Have You Taken A Boy Fishing Lately?

(Editor's Note: The following column was written by John Willard, who writes the column "Outdoor Montana". It contains good advice to all fishermen whether they are fathers or not.)

(Reprinted from the newspaper "The Inter Lake", Montana.)

"Going fishing this morning and got everything you need? Have you your rod, reel, new line, plenty of leaders, full book of flies and streamers, boots, creel, favorite hat and your lunch? Yep, got everything. But have you? How about that boy you left watching you out the window as you closed the car door and drove off into the reddening east?

"Sure, you told him you'd take him one of these days and just last night you read in the paper about all the trout that were planted in that special pond for kids. You told him he could go down there any time he liked—take his bike and his favorite buddy and spend the day if he wanted. You promised him you'd find a good spot for the family vacation this summer where he could fish all day if he liked.

"You bought him a new spinning rod and got your old fly rod re-wrapped and varnished and gave it to him, then gave him all your old flies when you tied those new ones last winter. You bought him a creel and a new level line and—then left him looking out the window when you drove off this morning.

"If it's any comfort (and it shouldn't be) you aren't the only one. Sure, it's hard to cut a day's fishing down to junior size and you can't burden your old fishing buddies with a boy who will demand most of your time and attention. But who needs that attention? Certainly not those unshaven and rumpled characters who have been sharing your fishing hours and who need fatherly advice and attention just about as much as a bull alligator.

"That boy who was left behind this morning has anywhere from a quarter to a half century of fishing ahead of him. If he is going to enjoy it as you have yours, and it is probably the only diversion from everyday humdrum he will have, he is going to have to learn it well, and only you can teach him.

"Now, the way to get things like this done is to start right away. The best fisherman in our family is only six and he is the kind who isn't satisfied until he has tried the hole around the next bend, even though he may have been fishing since morning and the sun is dropping off behind the hills. Whether he catches lots of fish is not too important to him. Catching a few is just as good. Fathers can teach boys how to cast, how to rig their outfits, where the trout lie, how to approach a glassy beaver pool at dusk, how the fish move into the shade of a cliff in late afternoon, all about a "hatch" that dances across the water. Besides these things he can teach him that it is the fishing and not the fish that we are really after, that in this business of enjoying the outdoors only a fish can be caught and put back to be caught again another day. Shoot a bird or an animal once and his life is stilled forever. Not so a fish, who has more lives than a cat if you want him to have them. Most of all, this boy wants you to see that he knows the game and its rules, knows fish and game laws and how to be safe in the water. He wants you to know that he can tell a Loch from a Brookie.

"Go back and get him. You may get the surprise of your life today."

Could it be that the philandering husband is sitting up with a chic friend?

Fishing Returns or Income Tax Returns?

What if fishing expenses were deductible?

The idea of such consideration would immeasurably lift the spirits of millions of Americans around April 15th. Although it's claimed that Allah doesn't deduct from the life span of man those hours spent in fishing, Uncle Sam fails to make similar allowances on the income tax form.

And, that just doesn't seem quite right.

Ask any fisherman. He'll tell you that a quiet morning spent on his favorite stream is one of the most effective "cures" known to man. The sparkle of fresh dew on the grass, water gently lapping against the bank, and the electrifying yank as a lunker smashes a lure can heal more ailments than a whole array of pills and tonics. Yet, this natural therapy is not deductible.

The arguments against fishing deductions include the claim that it would give rise to a whole new concept in "swindle sheets." Fortunately, this would not occur. Anglers possess two built-in inhibitions which prevent padded accounts.

First fishermen are honest. Sure, they may bamboozle a bass with an artificial minnow, or perhaps exaggerate a bit in telling of conquests... but no finer group exists.

Secondly, expense records are always subject to the close scrutiny of fishing "widows,"—those wives who won't accompany their husbands afield. A vague entry listing "entertainment" would probably start an investigation that would make treasury agents look like amateurs.

Yes sir, fishing deductions would be mighty nice. But they're not really needed. Besides, who wants to waste time figuring tax forms during April when the same amount of effort with a flyrod yields far greater returns?

Fewer Birds, Rabbits Taken in 1958 Season

More than one million pheasants were taken for the sixth straight year and the cottontail rabbit remained Michigan's leading game animal during the 1958 small game season, according to the Conservation Department's recently completed post card survey of resident and non-resident hunters.

Nevertheless, hunter success was below the 1957 level for ringnecks, cottontails and ducks. Dry weather and low water levels were chiefly responsible for the decline in pheasant and duck take while winter's deep snow and cold temperatures held down the cottontail total.

Approximately 1,181,340 pheasants were harvested, roughly 75,000 less than in 1957. The cottontail take of 1,466,910 was about 118,000 below the 1957 kill. Some 453,860 ducks were bagged compared with the 1957 total of 543,600. Elsewhere, the woodcock kill dropped from 67,760 in 1957 to 62,430.

Nick Lup Reports On MUCC Meeting

Manistee, Michigan
June 21, 1959

After hearing a few comments on the stress placed on MUCC as against MLCA, I will try to put before you a few observations. Draw your own conclusions.

When men like Ross Leffler, assistant secretary of the Department of Interior, will come before an MUCC Convention this definitely proves their stature. Some of the points he covered, which left a great impression with me, were:

Money paid in MUCC will pay tremendous dividends.

A strong and militant sportsmen's organization can and will be the dominant part in the conservation of our dwindling national resources.

The power of organized sportsmen will be felt and the Dept. of Interior is looking to them to accomplish more in conservation.

Avoid the local problem concept in favor of overall good conservation.

More will be accomplished by taking professional leaders' advice and program development.

We sat through these meetings and all members present voted your wishes. Because you had no proposals on a state level or are satisfied with conservation practices as they are we had no business to promote for you.

However, we were so impressed and have absorbed so much conservation activity at this convention that I would like to urge any member to attend such meetings in the future if he possibly can. They are worth every bit of the time spent there.

Your Delegate,
Nick Lup

Ways to Reduce Fishing Knot Failures A By-Product of New Line Development

Factors which cause some fishing knots to fail at the first tug, while others survive heavy strikes equal to the full rated line strength, have been identified by Du Pont.

The discovery was a by-product of the company's technical development of its new "Stren" monofilament spinning line.

The Du Pont findings, based on a wide range of premium lines including nylon, showed that knots affected all monofilament about the same. Lines with an initial advantage in strength when unknotted tended to retain this same margin over other lines when tied.

The greatest reason for sudden line failure was traced to selection of the wrong knot or improper tying.

For example, the wind or overhand knot cuts line strength in half. On the other extreme, use of the blood knot or improved clinch knot could give as much as 100 per cent of full rated line strength.

The greatest improvement to knot strength came from the use of extra turns around the standing part of the line. A minimum of five turns is recommended for the blood and clinch knots. Extra turns help distribute the stress. As turns are decreased, knot strength drops off sharply. A four-turn blood knot drops the strength of 10-pound monofilament down to 8.5 pounds. Three turns drop this to 7.5 pounds, and two turns to six pounds, or a loss of 40 per cent.

Even when high-strength knots are selected, variations in performance result if the knot is improperly tied. If not pulled up tight, failure tends to occur within the knot itself. Slippage, leading to an unequal distribution of stress, is the main reason for this. This tendency increases in knots when friction is against alien materials. The tendency to slip or to untie is minimized in knots in which the friction is largely on the turns of the material itself. If pulled tight, extra turns of the blood knot tend to gain extra grip by actually squeezing the standing part of the line at the core of the knot.

As a result of the tests, Du Pont recommends the use of the improved clinch knot for joining line to lures and hooks; the improved blood knot for joining two lines together; and the improved end loop knot for forming a loop at the end of a line.

The study was based on an electronic tensile tester supplemented by high speed motion pictures of knots during failure. Additional studies of the problems are still under way.
